Upon the second floor are the House of Representatives in the south-ern wing and the Senate Chamber, now occupied by the Congress, in the northern wing. The build-ing is well proportioned and well arranged, and ex-hibits, in its entire construction, good taste and superior architectural skill. It was erected at a cost of $30,000 and presented to the State, in behalf of the cit cans of Montgomery. The private and public buildings seem to be durable rad capacious and exhibit a neatness and nowness, that cannot ful E. P. EDWARDS to attract attention. In no place of its size can there like be found a larger number of private res-idences, constructed with so much taste and ele-gonery Hall and the Madison House.

Pure and good drinking water is abundantly applied from artesian wells, two of which are cometed, and the third in progress of construction. Cisterns are also in general use.

In point of trade and commerce, Montgomery is proportion of other produce. Its citizens are an active and energetic people, as may be seen in the railroad enterprises which have been completed T is well known to the profession that Electricity is the great and the profession and the profession and the profession that Electricity is the great and the profession and the profession and the profession and the profession that Electricity is the great and the profession and the profession and the profession that Electricity is the great and the profession of the profession and th PHYSICIANS who may wish to avail themselves of this walmable discovery in Electric Baths are invited to call at my office
